

Definition of investigative journalism

- deals with problems of major importance
- deals with systemic problems or systematic abuse
- deals with problems that some sources want to cover up or they want keep their own role secret
- presupposes the reporter's own revelation of the problem, of its causes and consequences

The implicit aim of the investigative journalism is to correct the systematic errors.